Spiritual Fitness Inventory

Research has shown that spirituality is positively associated with good physical and psychological health. Although definitions vary, at its most basic, spirituality refers to a person's deepest beliefs, way of relating to others, and of making sense of the world around you. The Spiritual Fitness Inventory (SFI) is a tool to assess spiritual fitness as a component of resilience and readiness.

When: 1 June – 31 AUG 2015

Where: https://usaphcapps.amedd.army.mil/Survey/se.ashx?s=2511374540458B4B

Focus: Results of the SFI will be used to help track changes in spiritual fitness over time as part of a comprehensive approach to wellness and resiliency. It will also be used to develop new programs or services to increase spiritual resilience.

The FRWG will collect and analyze data, identify trends & intervention shortfalls as it pertains to Family members on the Installation. Additionally, the FRWG will help to make policy recommendations to commanders/program managers/directors to help build Resilience amongst Family Members.

When: Third Wednesday of every month at 9:00 a.m.

Where: FRC
